President's Message:

Happy New Year Rotarians

May I offer the following resolutions for 2003:

- (1) Get to know each other better
- (2) Practice our theme: Sow The Seeds of Love
- (3) Attend our meetings and participate in our projects
- (4) Introduce a new member to our club

We are honored today to have our honorable Mayor Carol Federighi deliver a "State of the City" address. Carol has been on the City Council for two years, and has also served as a Planning Commissioner and Parking Commissioner for Lafayette. Carol is an attorney who works at Legal Assistance for Seniors, a non-profit group that serves the senior population. Carol has also served as the statewide president of the League of Women Voters.

TODAYS SPEAKER:

Carol Federighi

Mayor of Lafayette

The State of the City

Next Week Emily Haas and Citizen of the Year Mary McCosker will be our guest speakers. Haas and McCosker co-authored a book describing the early history of Lafayette, and currently serve as history instructors for the Lafayette Arts and Sciences Foundation. Each year Haas and McCosker give a local history tour to every single third grader in the Lafayette School District. Haas and McCosker will introduce Rotarians to our own local history.

On January 23rd, Veterans Hall activists Terry Murphy and Art Miller will give Rotarians a progress report on the new Veterans Building, explain their hopes and plans for the memorial building, and describe their experience trying to get a public building completed in a small town where everyone has a different opinion on everything.
